

RELIGION TAUGHT TO P. S. CHILDREN

Experiment Opens in Bronx With
125 Pupils For Fifty-Minute
Period, Others Following.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Pupils in Public School 45, Bronx, have begun to receive religious instruction during school hours. Under the direction of Father Caffuzi the Catholic Church provided teachers for classes in rented quarters one block from the school and at 9 o'clock 125 pupils went there, instead of to school, and received religious instruction for one fifty-minute period.

The children were taken to the school by the religious teachers at the close of the period and another group of children were released from school for religious instruction. Four classes from Public School 45 will be out of school each period for religious instruction, the younger pupils on two days a week, and the older ones on Fridays. At present only the Catholic Church is co-operating in the experiment.

It is the intention to extend the plan to other schools and to enlist the co-operation of other denominations in this work—which is planned by a committee upon which all denominations are represented. Just as soon as the other Bronx schools that are to try the Gary plan are ready to adopt the plan, the religious instruction feature will be adopted. Father Caffuzi is prepared to take Catholic children alone from Public School 12 and Public School 32, Bronx.

According to the Rev. Dr. G. U. Wenner, the archbishop, who is prepared to co-operate, they have selected as their Bronx center Bethany Church, on Teasdale place. The Episcopal Church in the Bronx will be ready to co-operate about February 1, with the Church of the Advocate, Tremont, and Bronx Church House, Crotona park, as the centers of the plan. Mr. Stevens said he could not see why anybody should complain of the part the churches propose to take in the religious instruction plan. Nobody is introducing religion into the public schools. The work of the church and State and the city is not being mixed up.

Chairman John Whalen, of the committee of the various denominations explained that the churches pay the salaries of the teachers, provide the rooms and bear all the expense.

"If the plan works well in the Bronx," he added, "it will be extended." The Gary School plan, in its relation to the churches, will be discussed at the fall convention of the Episcopal laymen in the Laymen's Efficiency League, to be held at Synod Hall, beginning October 1. Superintendent Eitinger, Archdeacon Pott, and the Rev. J. W. Sturtevant will confer upon the plan on October 22.

Genuine Naval Battle Flag On Exhibition

A genuine battle flag bearing the scars of conflict is one of the exhibits in the room of the Naval Veterans Association at Camp Emory. This is the flag taken from the Black Warrior in a fight at Elizabeth City, on February 10, 1862. The boat was one of six Confederate ships that attempted to give battle to a fleet of gunboats under the command of Commodore Rowan, near Elizabeth City. The Black Warrior was the last of the six to be captured and destroyed and the flag was found aboard her by William F. Gregg, of Plainville, Mass. in this ship's officer on board the U. S. S. Whitehead. Lieutenant Gregg boarded the Black Warrior while she was burning, and found the flag in one of her lockers.

Announcement is made by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce that it is prepared to furnish American exporters with accurate information regarding foreign rates of import duty, including rates in American countries. FATHER M'DONNELL OFF TO NEW WORK

Former President of Gonzaga
Becomes Head of Jesuit
Mission Band in Philadelphia

The Rev. Eugene deL. McDonnell, S. J., president of Gonzaga College, and pastor of St. Aloysius Church for the last eleven years, today left for Philadelphia to head the Jesuit mission band in that city. The Rev. Francis McDonnell, the new president of the college, and pastor of St. Aloysius, was installed by Father McDonnell this morning, and immediately took charge.

During his administration Father McDonnell has built the new Gonzaga College and greatly broadened the activities of the school. He has been a potent influence in organizing the men of the church. The Third Sunday brigade, which was one of the organizations he founded, now numbers 2,000 members, who are pledged to attend holy communion every month. Owing to delay in the arrival of his successor, Father McDonnell was unable to announce his contemplated departure until today.

Alumni of Gonzaga and members of his parish expressed the deepest regret at the change which took Father McDonnell from Washington.

Father McDonnell comes to the presidency of Gonzaga from the Jesuit House of Studies at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where for eight years he has been professor of rhetoric and English literature. He speaks German, French, Greek and Spanish, and is author of text books on literature.

Confederate Money Kept In Treasury Building

In a small dark room under the eaves of the south wing of the Treasury stand seven large packing boxes with covers nailed down. Sightseers are never permitted to enter this dingy attic room, and very few persons, even among the oldest employees, could guess the contents of the boxes. They are filled with Confederate money, a portion of which was captured from Southern banks and from dead or living Confederate soldiers and forwarded through the War Department to the Treasury. The larger share of this money was collected by the Treasury agents who conducted the cotton business of the United States in 1864 and succeeding years.

These boxes contain not only the bank notes of the Confederate government but thousands of the bills issued by the States to take the place of the chips which traders were compelled to offer as change after the South suspended specie payment in July, 1861. Later the issue of small bills by the various States rendered these "chips" unnecessary.

Six Boarding House Runners Are Arrested

Six of the boarding-house runners who operate just beyond the confines of the Union Station Plaza are under arrest today as the result, declare the police of the Sixth precinct, of too great activity yesterday afternoon in steering visitors here for the Grand Army encampment to rooming houses. The arrests were made by Policemen Dawson and Montgomery. The men gave their names as Vincent T. Fritz, Edward Haley, Edward Johnson, John A. Davis, and Herbert T. McDonald. They were arrested under that section of the police regulations which prohibits the obstruction of the streets.

To Keep Your Skin Free From Hair

(Beauty Topics.)

If you are willing to spend a few minutes' time in your room using a delatone paste, you can easily banish any ugly, hairy growth without discomfort or injury. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is then spread over the hairy surface, and after about 2 minutes rubbed off and the skin washed. You will not be disappointed with this treatment, providing you get real delatone.—Advt.

TELLS OF RISE OF MODERN GERMANY

Kaiser's Land a Menace and Model, Problem and Pathfinder, Says F. C. Howe.

The "German peril" is only in part a military peril, according to Dr. Frederick C. Howe, who in his latest work, "Socialized Germany," describes Germany as "a menace and a model, a problem, a pathfinder in social reform." For no other country, he says, has so greatly improved the well-being of so large a portion of the people.

The author asserts that Germany has given a new conception of the state to the world. There is not as much individual freedom as in America; "verboten" is the law of the land. The individual exists for the state and not the state for the individual. There is an endless supervision of the individual under the police power of the state, but this is not resented by the people.

In other respects, however, of an economic character, the German individual enjoys greater freedom than the American. There is no fear of, nor favor for, capital. The people are protected by social legislation, and educational opportunities are universal. "Germany," it is said, "protects industrial and social equality, while America protects political and personal equality." There is productive and distributive socialism, and consequently far less exploitation of the people in Germany than in the United States, despite the fact that there is no recognition in the Kaiser's dominions of democratic ideas, and that the ruling class is the landed aristocracy.

No agency has done more for Germany than her state-owned railways. They function for the empire as the heart and veins do for the human body. Whereas the war of interests in the United States has resulted in many abuses, such as rebates, discriminations, etc., with effects injurious to legitimate enterprise, all these devices are applied in Germany, but scientifically and equitably, with the result that only the community at large is served. Canals, waterways and free ports are likewise intelligently administered in Germany, and against the state, and syndicates, encouraged by the government, are made to serve the interests of the state.

Social legislation in Germany has checked the tendency to emigrate, and has identified the working classes with the state. Government employment agencies secure work for men out of jobs, there is sickness insurance, accident and old age insurance, labor and industrial courts, and unemployment war insurance. From the three insurance funds the sum of $1,274,835,000 has been paid, and of this total "the working classes paid less than one-half, the employers a somewhat larger share, while the empire contributed $96,700,000."

Germany is the land of schoolmasters. Eight years of attendance at school is compulsory. The population is specialized for the trades, the industries, the professions. The British consul, Lord Dunsford, as quoted in the British Diplomatic and Consular Reports, 1913, declared: "It may not in the long run avail us to maintain a two-school system, but to maintain a two-school power against us."

One of the greatest marvels of Germany is her city. Municipalities there are social agencies, not political, as in America. Their ideal is human welfare through service not through the exercise of police power. There is municipal ownership of all public utilities, of lands, of forests and farms, and of businesses that in America would be regarded as invasion of private enterprise. Dr. Howe presents a most readable volume and affords an intimate view of some of the agencies which have made Germany the great power she is in the progress of the world.

Dr. H. C. Smith Returns.

The Rev. Dr. Hubert Scott Smith, rector of St. Margaret's Church, Washington Heights, and his family have returned from their summer home at Haven, Me., and opened St. Margaret's rectory. The winter schedule of the church will be inaugurated next Sunday. The Rev. C. J. Wingate, assistant rector of St. Margaret's Church, has gone to the Virginia coast for a brief vacation.

In Excess of 700—Formal Exercises Sunday.

With the registration of students already in excess of 700 at Catholic University, that institution began its fall term today. There will be no formal exercises until Sunday. Today was spent mainly in completing the work of registration and in arranging courses for students.

On Sunday there will be a pontifical high mass, attended by the entire faculty and student body, in the chapel of Gibbons Hall. This mass will be celebrated by Bishop Shahan, president of the university, and the faculty will be in cap and gown.

The freshman class is expected to register about 150. This number is about equally divided among the Schools of Science, Law and Letters. Divinity Hall will have about fifty young priests. Trinity College already has opened its doors and an increase of students is reported.
